

Building Leadership Capacity

The Rotman School of Management and the Collaborative for Health Sector Strategy, under the direction of Professor Brian Golden, wish to congratulate the graduates of the fifth offering of the Rotman Advanced Health Leadership Program. The Advanced Health Leadership Program at the Rotman School is designed for health care leaders who are interested in developing their strengths in leadership, the management of change, emotional and political intelligence and Integrative Thinking™. Thanks to the generous support of the Ministry of Health and Long-Term Care, clinical and administrative leaders from all sectors of the Ontario health system received partial or full scholarships to attend this intensive 3-week modular program.

Central to Program's philosophy is exposing participants to varied "models" of leadership. Among system leaders who have worked with our participants are: Bonnie Adamson, Matt Anderson, Carolyn Baker, Penny Ballem, Bob Bell, Sacha Bhatia, Hon. David Caplan, Hon. Elinor Caplan, Tom Closson, Stacey Daub, Janet Davidson, Sister Elizabeth Davis, Ken Deane, Michael Decter, Michelle DiEmanuele, Marilyn Emery, Kevin Empey, Tony Fell, Cathy Fooks, Mary Jo Haddad, Alan Hudson, Jack Kitts, Hugh MacLeod, Pat Mandy, Joseph Mapa, Neil McEvoy, Camille Orridge, Philip Orsino, Gail Paech, Gino Picciano, Mark Rochon, Ron Sapsford, Shirlee Sharkey, Kevin Smith, Hon. George Smitherman, Terry Sullivan, Leslee Thompson, Marian Walsh, Catharine Whiteside, and Catherine Zahn.

“The faculty were amazing, and my classmates were also wonderful. The opportunity to interact with people spanning the spectrum of health care is truly unique. The course material itself challenged me intellectually and on a personal level, it has given me a whole new perspective on my role and how to leverage my personal strengths to maximum effect.

“When people are pushed out of their comfort zone, that's when breakthrough learning occurs. The program helped me to articulate what kind of leader I want to be, and provided me with the skills and tools to take me to another level.
